

Jamie Bartoszek

Software Recruitment Specialist

Being a specialist in the software development market means I'm not your recruiter that reads of a job spec, I like to talk tech and get to know who I'm speaking with. Knowledge is power and in this sense, it makes me super effective at delivering top-notch talent to companies who are doing amazing things. I'm immersed in what I do, and my passion is what will outshine any others that think they can do more.

RECOMMENDATIONS:

Deutsche Bank

"Jamie approached me about an opportunity for a Senior Java role at a major financial company based in London. From the start, he was keen to understand what I was looking for first and know what kind of role would have me engaged. A proactive communicator, and in spite of his foot injury, he ensured he was there at all times to give me clear, valuable information and advice along the entire process – from initial online tests to face-to-face interviews to negotiations at the offer stage. Jamie proved to be a nothing short of a good professional recruiter and would be an asset to any company or individual looking for a new opportunity."
